Local Men Share Memories, History

Veterans Were On Duty At President Kennedy's Funeral 51 Years Ago

By Wes Feese
Editor

Ralph Pierce and Jerome Burton sat at Longhunter's Coffee and Tea Company in Greensburg Friday morning, huddled at a table and sharing stories like old friends. Despite being the same age, 75, and living their entire lives just a short drive from one another—Pierce in Green County and Burton in Adair—the two men had never met.

They do share a unique experience though, as both were participants in in a significant, historical moment 51 years ago: John F. Kennedy's funeral.

Both men were serving in the Army when President Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, and both were assigned detail near the burial site on Nov. 25, 1963.

Ralph Pierce, left, and Jerome Burton met for the first time last Friday in Greensburg. Despite their neighboring hometowns, the two men had never met, but both veterans were on duty in Washington 51 years ago for President John F. Kennedy's funeral.

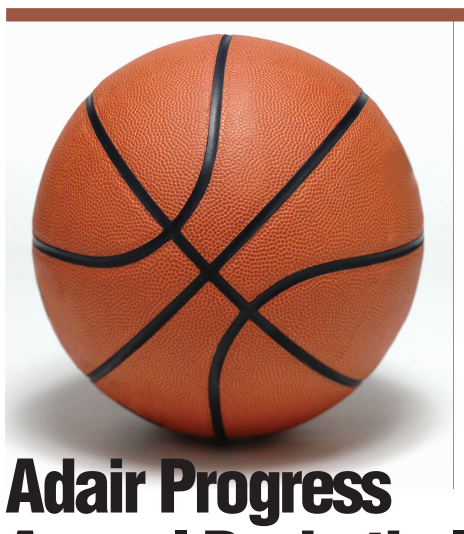

"We were probably 100 feet apart when we were there but never knew each other," Burton says. "It's kind of odd—I've never really talked about this."

Burton still remembers hearing the news that the president had been shot.

"I was on the rock wall down at the Potomac River—it was cold, but I can't remember why I was there," Burton says. "I remember that it was a sad occasion, and I knew what was coming for me."

Funeral duties, burials at Arlington National Cemetery, and guarding the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier were regular

Adair Progress Annual Basketball Contest Returns

The 2014 college hoops season is already a few weeks old, and as holiday marathons and tournaments draw near, we once again tip off the Adair Progress Basketball Contest.

This year's initial contest features 20 games plus one tiebreaker, and the format remains the same. Contestants will predict the winner of each matchup, plus a margin of victory for the week's tiebreaker, and submit their entry in ink, postmarked no later than Friday. After all games have been played, entries will be scored, and the top three finishers each week, plus one random drawing winner, will earn a prize based on their finish.

Prizes remain the same for this season's contest. First place each week will earn $25 and a Sonic Combo Value Meal. Second place will take home a six-pack of Ski courtesy of Western Kentucky University and the Coca-Cola Company and a Burger King Whopper Value Meal. Both the third place finisher and the week's random drawing selection will receive a Sonic Combo Value Meal.

Forget Me Not: A Reminder To Shop Local

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

With the holiday season fully upon us, gift ideas and shopping deadlines fill the minds of people across the country like candy in a Christmas stocking. Through crowded malls and chaotic department stores, one Columbia couple is helping spur a growing movement that encourages citizens to shop locally, for the holidays and beyond.

Two years ago, Sarah Steele and her family found themselves at crunch time in buying a suitable memorial arrangement for her grandmother. With options and time limited, Sarah bought the necessary products and flowers, and through Internet tutorials and trial and error, created a custom made arrangement that was a rousing success.

"After that, it seemed like everyone in the family wanted flowers for centerpieces or arrangements, so I started from there," she explains.

New Business Helps Families For Thankgiving

By Wes Feese
Editor

A newly opened business in Adair County is endearing itself to the community by providing Thanksgiving meals to 50 local families.

Dubbed "Crawl for a Cause," Pumpjack Off-Road Recreational Park, a 1,200-acre campground with extensive ATV and off-road vehicle trails, offered a discounted admission rate this past Saturday to patrons that brought non-perishable food items to donate, and the effort was a huge success, as more than 400 people offered donations.

"We usually charge $10, but we charged $5 for people that brought food, and we were just overwhelmed with the turnout," Heather Coomer, who co-owns the business along with her boyfriend, Scott Corbin, says. "We just wanted to do something to help the community and thought that this might be a good idea."

Coomer and her family boxed the items up, bought turkeys, and delivered the food to families Tuesday. She

The Weekly WORD

Editorial Commentary
Written By
Wes Feese, EDITOR

Monday night was a sad one for our country. A Ferguson, Mo. grand jury decided not to indict police officer Darren Wilson for shooting and killing unarmed 18-year-old Michael Brown in August, and following the announcement hundreds of criminals masquerading as protesters brought anarchy and destruction upon Ferguson, starting fires, looting businesses, and destroying any property that lay in their wake.

Watching the events unfold on the news, in real time, was almost surreal. I spent the whole night trying to organize my thoughts on the issue, sorting through my emotions and prejudices, and trying to make sense of a story that has been as senseless as it has sad for months now.

This ordeal highlights several tragedies. The first and most important is that a young man died. He apparently wasn't an innocent man, it should be noted, but life is precious and it's a shame that his was taken because of a couple stupid acts on his (and possibly the police officer's) part. The second tragedy is the degradation of the U.S. Constitution, which allows for peaceful assembly and protest. And the protesters in Ferguson were peaceful. There were people with megaphones pleading for the rioting to stop, and lambasting the justice system for what they believed was an unjust acquittal. That's fine, they have that right. Sadly though, the exercise of this constitutional right was overshadowed by hoodlums, folks that didn't care about protesting but instead wanted to create a ruckus, break some windows, steal some liquor, and get on TV. I won't call these people protesters, because they were really just a mob using the excuse of protest. The third tragedy, which I'll delve into a little more deeply, concerns the media—which I am marginally a part of, at least on the local fringes.

The media was for the most part complicit in this sideshow. Following the acquittal, supposedly legitimate news outlets wasted little time analyzing the decision, interviewing people involved in the judicial process, or discussing this country's very real racial rift, which we like to pretend doesn't exist anymore but are reminded of every time a white police officer shoots an unarmed black boy.

Instead, we were treated to a violent carnival. Objectively, broken windows have nothing to do with Darren Wilson, Michael Brown, the justice system, police brutality, or racism, yet I saw more broken windows on the news than any discussion of the real issues at hand.

I don't blame the media for covering the riots, that's its job. I do blame some media outlets for instigating some of it though. They were stationed in Ferguson all day Monday, reporting about the expected riots that an acquittal would cause, long before the acquittal was announced. It shouldn't be surprising then, that following the acquittal, the mob acted just as they were expected to. Just watching on TV, I got the feeling that CNN and FoxNews were glad the riots occurred, not because they are bloodthirsty or evil, but because it's flashy. It drawsin viewers, and it's easier to report, "I just saw a man with a bat smash a window," than, "Let's review the testimony that led to the acquittal," or, "What does this say about our nation's race relations?"

It was garbage. It was news, sure, but the biggest news of the night should have been the acquittal, not the protests, and definitely not the angry mob of criminals that weakened and drew attention away from the real, peaceful protests.

I really don't like talking about race in these columns. I can only speak for myself, but my views are inevitably lumped in with those of others that I may or may not agree with. This Wilson-Brown-Ferguson issue can't be discussed without mentioning it though, so I will say this: Simply by scanning by social media timelines, it's clear that there is still a racial divide in this country. It's disturbing to see the tone that some people take when they talk about this issue. It's way too complex to simplify as a black/white thing, but it would be naïve to ignore the race issue entirely. I hope, as the protests die down, that real discussion for progress takes its place, and I hope the news outlets keep the cameras rolling when this happens.

Precious People, one of my favorite all time artists going back to high school is Don Henley of Eagles fame. He wrote a song many years ago and it has become one of my favorite, My Thanksgiving (Henley, Inside Job, 2000):

For every winding road that brought me here
For every breath, for every day of living
This is my Thanksgiving

For everyone who helped me start
And for everything that broke my heart
For every breath, for every day of living
This is my Thanksgiving

Precious Ones, the essence of the Thanksgiving holiday is a time to rejoice in the wonderful life we enjoy. We live in the safest country in the world; where blessings abound whether you see them or not. Thanksgiving is a time to reflect on the paths, good and bad, that brought us to here - "every winding road that brought me here"... Not just our lives, but the lives of our ancestors who had a much more difficult life. And back to the Pilgrims who arrived first and laid the foundations for the country we so richly enjoy. And for all the soldiers who fought and died so we can be free as a people and a nation. Thanksgiving is a time of pause, a time to look inside, review and reflect on everyone who helped me start.

The Bryant family is a "modern" family with people and parts, blood kin and not really and we love them all the same. We are not the stereotypic family that you might see on a typical Christmas card portrait. I'll bet your family may have some of those traits as well. Life has become so incredibly complicated. We are all so conflicted with preserving the past taught to us by our parents and yet, hoping for a greater expression of who we really are...the self we want to pass on to our children and grandchildren. Never make the mistake of assuming those who are presently in your life will be there forever. Be grateful "for every breath, for every day of living"

Precious People, our Precious Days are limited. Please make every day count. Our life moments are golden, fleeting and all we have – a moment in time. I challenge everyone who reads Ask. This holiday, find an hour, a moment, a second to be completely vulnerable, honest and genuine with someone you are committed to love forever. Give the ultimate gift. Do not fear, they love you with the same wish. You will not fail. Make this Thanksgiving the One. The One you will be truly thankful for- for the rest of your life. We all say the "I love you" until it seems to lose its meaning. Find it in your heart to talk to the family member that you haven't in a while – thankful for everything that broke my heart. Love your Family in a way that they will feel that you truly love them with your words and actions. This is our Thanksgiving. During the holidays: When you enter a house say, 'Peace to this house.' (Luke 10:5).

If you want to talk, call me. If you prefer to text or email, I'm available to you. Just reach out; I'm here to help you!

With Thanksgiving Gratitude for You,

Some Early Butler Family Genealogy

Captain William Butler was born about 1735 in Virginia, married and was father of several children. He was one of the celebrated Long Hunters who came into what is now Adair County as early as 1769, and made camp on Skin House Branch. He later returned to Virginia, gathered his family, and returned to Kentucky to settle. Capt. Butler built Butler's Station in Adair in 1789. According to best documentary evidence, his children were:

1) David, born about 1774, married Rebecca Millican in Adair County, bond dated 3 November 1802.

2) Elkanah "Cainer," born about 1785--according to some sources, but a Sangamon County Illinois History states he was father of: A) William Butler, born 15 December 1797 in Adair, died 11 November 1876 in Sangamon County, who was a 15-year-old courier for Gov. Shelby in the War of 1812, later deputy clerk of Adair, then migrated to Sangamon County in 1828; was there clerk of Sangamon Circuit Court, from 1836 to 1841, appointed Illinois State Treasurer to fill a vacancy in 1859 and elected to the same office in 1860, for a term of two years, married Elizabeth Rickard, in Sangamon County in 1832, had three children...and further states that Elkanah, father of William, died in Sangamon, but no is date given.

Elkanah "Cainer" married Elizabeth, and in November 1819 they sold a tract of land on the waters of Russell Creek, part of a head-right claim patented in the name of John Butler, to Asa Hardin. B) Isaac Butler, son of Elkanah, resided in Adair in December 1819 when he purchased his father's farm from an uncle, William Butler, who had purchased it previously.

3) William Butler resided in Cumberland County in 1819, at that time he purchased 100 acres in Adair from his brother "Cainer" and sold it back to Elkanah's son, Isaac, in December 1819.

4) Isaac Butler--generally believed this is the same Isaac who married Nancy, resided in Tennessee in 1817, and who purchased a 100 acre tract on Russell Creek, for one dollar, from John Butler, and sold it the same day to Elkanah Butler--likely the Isaac Butler listed in the 1795 Green County tax list. 5) Nathan.

6) James Butler, "son of pioneer William," and "quite an aged man," died in June 1846 in Adair, leaving a will. He was referred to as "James Butler, Sen'r" in an 1841 Adair civil court case. James was at least twice mar, (first may have been to Mary Harbison in Lincoln County, 29 November 1785), second to Mary "Polly" Forbis [Forbus or Forbes], daughter of James Forbis and Phoebe Bryan--who was daughter of Joseph Bryan and Alice, and half-sister of Rebecca Bryan Boone, wife of Daniel--married 27 March 1804 in Green County, surety was James Forbis.

James' known issue: A) Zidner Butler, born about 1795 in Adair, married Martha Bell in Adair 30 January 1809, attest John Bell, a daughter of Lettice Thompson. Zidner and Martha had children including: i) Elizabeth B., born about 1813 on East Fork, died in Adair 22 August 1854 with flux, unmarried; ii) Robert B., born about 1820, married Ellen S. Morrison 31 December 1844, and had children: a) Joseph; b) James A.; c) Juliza A.;

B) Jane Butler, daughter of James, born about 1795, married William M. Estes, born about 1786 Virginia, married in Adair, bond dated 24 November 1820, had children: i) Elizabeth Estes, born about 1829; ii) George Estes, born about 1833; iii) Susan Estes, born about 1839.

C) Mary Butler, married William Hamilton 15 February 1816 in Adair.

D) Margaret Butler, married Benjamin Hamilton 3 September 1817 in Adair.

E) Druscilla or Priscilla Butler, married John Redman 9 January 1824 in Adair.

F) Joannah W. Butler, married Joseph B. Walkup 23 July 1827 in Adair.

G) Susannah Butler, married John Estes.

H) James A. Butler, Jr., received land on South Fork of Little Barren River in 1843 by deed from his father, [He may have married Polly Jesse in Adair, bond dated 23 October 1834, attest William Jesse.].

Letters to the Editor

WE ARE SO BLESSED

Dear Editor,

We are so blessed to live in a country with the freedoms that many of us take for granted every day. I often marvel at the divine opportunities that God has blessed us with. I cannot even begin to count my blessings.

Soon I will retire from a rewarding career working in various jobs for Adair County. The experiences have exposed me to many serious, sad and also happy situations. I still have my sanity because I have placed my faith and trust in God to bear the burdens for me. God has been so merciful to me and I am so thankful.

Thanks to everyone for your love and support over the years. During this Thanksgiving time, my family and I wish you peace, joy and love!

responsibilities of Burton's, but he knew that President Kennedy's funeral and burial would be different.

"We had all that fancy stuff, dress blues and chrome rifles," Burton says. "And I couldn't march worth a dime, an old Kentucky boy from Burton Ridge. We were all nervous, scared."

"He had a Cadillac job," Pierce jokes, but adds that he was just as scared and unsure of the future as Burton. "I remember that we had a long day. We got there when it was dark and left when it was dark"

Pierce remembers seeing world leaders and dignitaries paying their respects, and says that's when he realized he was witnessing history.

"I remember seeing President [Charles] de Gaulle of France," Pierce says. "Everybody who was somebody in the world was there that day."

Time has a way of giving one perspective. No longer young men in their early 20s, Burton and Pierce have had several decades to reflect on their involvement in history. Over the years, the sadness and fear they originally felt about the day has given way to pride and acceptance, although both men acknowledge that the memories still stir up mixed emotions.

"Now, it's something to be proud of," Burton says. "At the time it wasn't. It was a job you had to do, and you'd cuss the Army while you did it."

For Pierce, he saw his feelings of Kennedy change even before the assassination.

"When Kennedy went to [Austria] to talk to [Soviet Premier Nikita] Khrushchev [in 1961], they kind of got into it," Pierce says. "He was the reason I went in [the Army]. I didn't vote for him, but I probably would have if he'd lived to run again—he was a good president."

Pierce says that it was comforting to meet a fellow soldier that served on the historic day, and that despite having never met, he feels like he knows Burton because of the bond.

"It makes you feel like the world's not as big as you thought it was," Pierce says. "I don't know him, but I know where he's coming from."

Neither of the men talks much about that cold November day, not because of shame or traumatic memories but simply because so few can relate to their experience.

"Nobody else knows about it," Pierce explains. "I have had some people ask about it, but it doesn't register to them. They watched it on black and white TV—they weren't there."

Burton says it's hard to reconcile the pride he feels for his involvement with the sad nature of the occasion.

"To me, it would sound like I'm bragging," Burton says. "It's nothing to be proud of a man getting killed."

After years of carrying these memories largely on their own, Friday's meeting allowed the two men to finally share their recollections with a fellow soldier, someone who was there, someone who understands.

"It's just nice to meet someone else that was there," Burton says. "It's like talking to someone I met a long time ago, even though we just met today."

•Blue Raiders

LWC junior tailback Josh Haney scored from 45 yards out to extend a Blue Raider lead that would hold despite a late score from Faulkner. As the final horn sounded, Lindsey Wilson advanced to the FCS Quarterfinals, 20-17.

Next up on the playoff docket was women's soccer. Also ranked no. 6 in the NAIA polls, the Lady Raiders blanked unranked Columbia (Mo.) 4-0 to advance to Orange Beach, Ala., the site of this year's NAIA Women's Soccer National Championship Tournament.

Blue Raider men's soccer followed, but found the sledding a bit tougher. Lindsey Wilson played upset-minded first time qualifier Lindenwood-Belleville (Ill.) to a scoreless regulation period and overtime in which neither side could find the back of the net. During penalty kicks, however, the nine-time NAIA champions showed their class, as a trio of Blue Raider attempts were true and LWC advanced 3-1 on PK's.

In the nightcap, the no. 12-ranked Lady Raider Volleyball team played host to Xavier (La.) hoping to complete perfection. The ladies were up to the task, besting Xavier 3-0 (25-16, 25-15, 25-16) to advance to NAIA Volleyball Championship pool play for the third consecutive season.

All four squads will be in action in the coming days, as LWC Football travels to take on Saint Xavier University on Saturday, men's soccer battles undefeated University of Texas at Brownsville on Monday, and then women's soccer squares off with tournament host University of Mobile and volleyball meets Davenport University in NAIA pool play on Tuesday. For a full recap on each of Saturday's contests, see the B-Section of this issue.

said that she hopes to work with organizations to help identify families in need in the future, but carried out this project largely on her own.

"We've kind of been winging it—getting in contact with people we know in need," Coomer says. "We pretty much threw it together in just a couple of weeks and did it on our own. We were just thrilled with the participation."

Moving forward, Coomer hopes to find other ways to serve the community. She has preliminary plans to do a drive of some sort for Christmas, but has yet to finalize the details.

"With Christmas coming up, we'll definitely be doing something," Coomer says. "We don't know what we're going to do yet, it'll just be whatever we can do to help people out."

Tips For Taking The Stress Out Of Holiday Cooking And Baking

(StatePoint) Anything to make entertaining easier is a welcome gift around the holiday season.

"Whether you're a newer cook or a seasoned expert, everyone can use an ally in the kitchen" says Anne-Michele Harrington, brand director at PAM.

In fact, 21 percent of home cooks have burned part of a meal (or the whole thing!) over the holiday season, according to the results of "The Sticky Situations" survey conducted by PAM, and over a quarter of respondents have made a dessert or entrée that was stuck to the pan and wouldn't come off.

With the avoidance of such kitchen snafus in mind, the experts at PAM are offering some tips to ease the kitchen madness so typical of holiday cooking:

• Set rules. If you are the type of cook or baker who gets irked by having too many cooks in the kitchen, the holidays can be particularly upsetting -- when you may be getting feedback from parents, your in-laws and anyone else who happens to be standing around.

Avoid this headache by keeping guests out of the kitchen entirely, or by assigning helpers specific tasks.

• Healthfully add a touch of flavor to your dishes and sweets by working with a good cooking spray, which is great for loaf pans, cookie sheets and Bundt pans, as well as for sautés and roasts.

• Stick to what you know. The day you cook a big meal for an extended group of friends and family is not the day to stray too far outside your comfort zone.

"Save the experimentation for another time, or do a practice run in advance of the big day," says Harrington.

• Make cleanup a cinch by coating pans and utensils, such as knives and pastry cutters with a specially formulated, non-stick cooking spray first, such as PAM, which now offers cooking spray that leaves up to 99 percent less residue than margarine or bargain-brand alternatives. Opt for PAM Original, Butter and Baking sprays to save time during prep and clean up.

Nearly 40 percent of survey respondents spend over 45 minutes washing dishes during or after a holiday meal, but that doesn't have to be you.

• Plan ahead. If you'll be baking for friends, neighbors and your children's teachers, get an early start on goodies that can keep well in the freezer.

More kitchen prep and clean up tips can be found at www.PAMCookingSpray.com.

Thanksgiving Proclamation, 1864

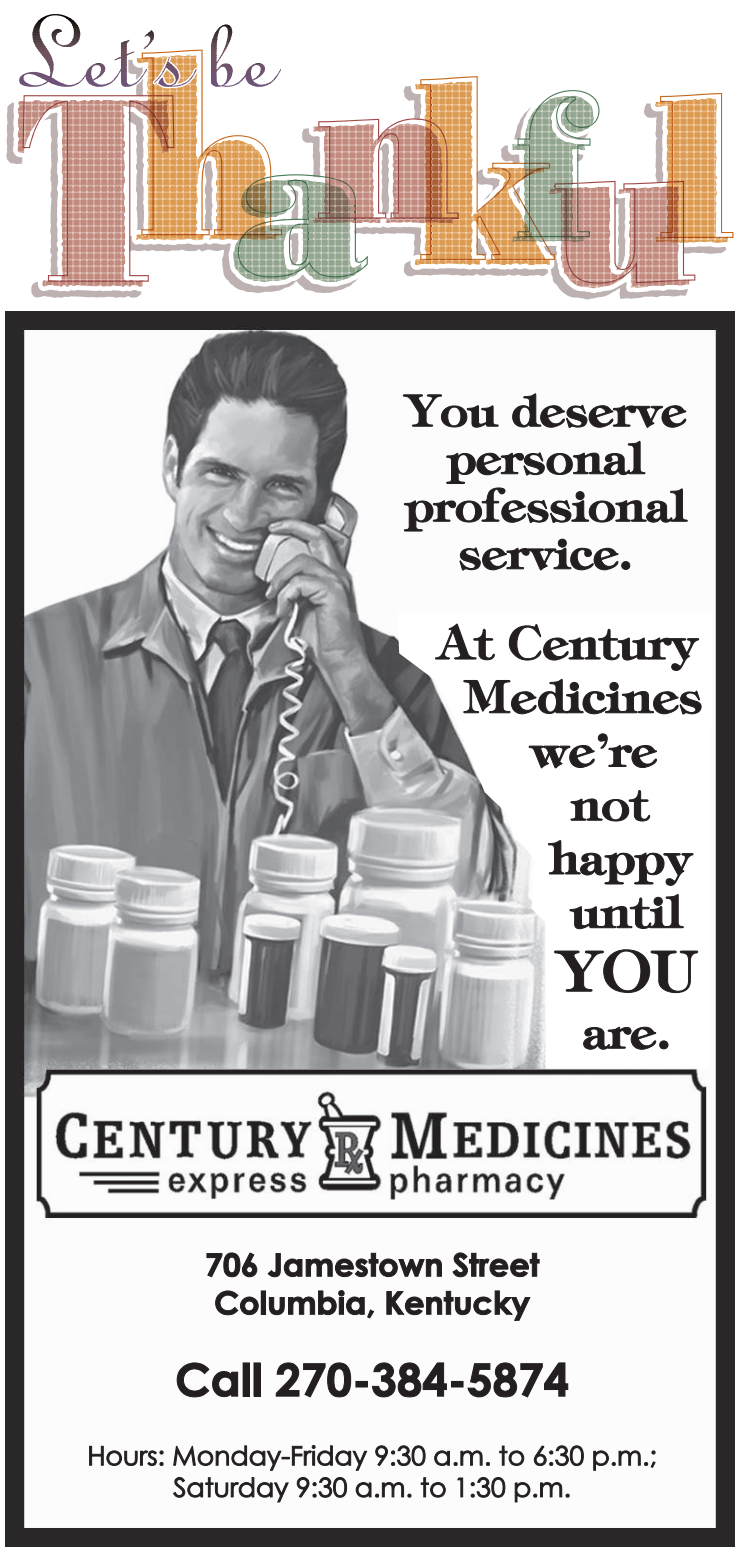

"Thursday, the 24th inst., having been set apart by the Proclamation of the President of the United States to be observed as a day of National Thanksgiving and Prayer, it should be so observed by all the citizens of Kentucky, with that becoming reverence and thankfulness to Almighty God for His manifold mercies bestowed, even while scourging us with war.

"We should praise and thank Him that we are yet preserved as a Nation, and that the hope of a preserved nationality, and a restored unity and peace to our distracted country, is still kept--as the Vestal flame--aglow in the hearts of the people. As a People and a Nation we have much--very much--for which to give Him thanks and praise, not only for blessings bestowed upon us, but for evils which He has withheld.

"Let, therefore, all business pursuits be suspended on Thursday, the 24th, inst., and all the people, with devout hearts of thankfulness to 'Him whose ways are not as man's ways,' assemble at their respective places of worship, and offer thanksgiving and praise to Him for the blessings He has bestowed and the evils He hath withheld; and pray that He will so order the issues of battle, and the councils of State, as to give to us a restoration of our national unity in the bonds of brotherly peace.

"This Proclamation was issued by Thomas E. Bramlette, Governor of Kentucky, in the name of the Commonwealth, from the Executive Department, Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 16th, 1864.

We were embroiled in a great war, the Civil War, at that time, still some months from the last shot. There was much to be thankful for then, as today. So much has to be repaired for life to continue for the nation, as today. MW

Let's Read! CHAPTER SEVEN

"That must be the instrument Chloe and I heard earlier," I said when we got upstairs and saw something that looked a little like a fiddle. Mr. B. picked up the instrument, put it in his lap and began strumming.

"It's an Appalachian dulcimer. Some folks call it the Kentucky dulcimer, the mountain dulcimer or the hog fiddle," Mr. B. explained, resulting in a giggle. "The Appalachian dulcimer is different from the hammered dulcimer. As you can see, the dulcimer is made from wood. It's about 75 to 90 centimeters long, and the sound box is in the shape of a teardrop or hourglass. It typically has three or four strings. The player puts the dulcimer in his lap or on a table and strums. Do you know what the word dulcimer means?"

Chloe and I were clueless.

"It means 'sweet music,'" Mr. B. said. "Music, especially mountain music, was a big part of the Appalachian Mountains. Every year we would go to "singing school" and learn how to read shape notes. Then we could sing four-part harmony."

"Please sing the song you sang earlier," I begged, wanting to hear that song about the sour mountain.

Chickens a-crowing on Sourwood Mountain,
Hey, ho, diddle-um day.
So many pretty girls I can't count 'em,
Hey, ho, diddle-um day.

Mr. B. said that when folk songs or stories were passed down from generation to generation, people would change the words a little. I decided to change the song to Sourwoody Mountain. You should have seen Chloe and me dancing a jig, as Mr. B. called it, while he kept strumming. "Now let me see you pups clog."

"Clog? Is that like the moon walk or the electric slide?" I asked.

"Not quite," Mr. B. said, laughing. "Clogging is the official dance of the state of Kentucky. You use the heel or toe of your shoe to make a percussive sound on the floor to the downbeat of the music. Make sure you keep your knees loose. Can you guess where clogging originated?"

"Apple-at-cha?: I asked, being careful to pronounce it correctly.

"You got it!"

"Do you know how to clog, Mr. B.?" Chloe asked.

"I reckon so. Clogging is a folk dance. Like so many other things, clogging has been passed down through generations. My granny won second place in a national clogging competition back many a year ago. I never will forget when my Pa taught me to clog. Once I got older, I loved going to the lunchbox social and bidding on the prettiest girl's basket. Then we would eat our lunch together, listen to music and clog."

I didn't know why Mr. B. was wasting his time talking about girls when we could talk about clogging. Wanting to make the drumlike sounds on the floor while I clogged, I found my heaviest four shoes and put them on. Unfortunately, my heaviest shoes were my snow boots. Even with them on, I couldn't seem to get the beat.

"One of the keys to clogging, Woody, is to listen to the music," Mr. B. explained. "Otherwise, you won't hear the downbeat of the song, so use those ears of yours and listen carefully."

There was that listening word again. I did my best to listen. Mr. B. started singing another mountain song called Cripple Creek. Chloe seemed to pick up clogging easily. Maybe it was my shoes. They didn't have the correct heel to make that drum sound.

As they continued to sing and clog, I went downstairs to Mom's closet. I searched but couldn't find four shoes that were alike. I finally decided on four different high-heeled shoes, hoping the different heights of the heels would make the clogging sound stronger.

Though it was difficult to walk back upstairs in four different high heels, it was worth it. I began kicking my heels to the beat of the music and stomping my feet so loud it sounded like airplanes flying over our house. The more I clogged, the more my family laughed, though I was unsure why. Before I knew it, I'd lost my footing and felt myself traveling through the air while I heard Mom say "Woooo-dddyyyyy"

I tried to open my eyes but couldn't see anything. Just minutes ago, I was on the second floor of our house clogging with my sister. Now I was somewhere on the first floor. I could hear Mom and Dad calling my name and felt someone wiping my head with a wet cloth. Finally my eyes focused, and I saw Mom, Dad and Chloe staring down at me. I rubbed the goose egg on my head and was alarmed to find I was covered in blood.

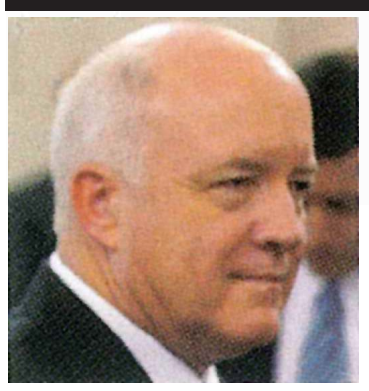

AUTHOR

LEIGH ANNE FLORENCE is Kentucky born, Kentucky bred, Kentucky educated, a Kentucky Colonel, and the Kentucky author of the popular series, Woody, The Kentucky Wiener. A native of Murray, Kentucky, Florence is a 1990 graduate of Calloway County High School. In 1996 she received her Masters of Music Education from Murray State University. She now resides in Shepherdsville, Kentucky with husband Ron and a host of animals, most notably her black and tan miniature dachshund, Woody, who is the star character in her children's series, Woody, The Kentucky Wiener.

After seven years as a public school music teacher, Florence resigned from her teaching duties to concentrate on writing and public speaking. Leigh Anne, accompanied by Ron and the entire wiener dog gang, spends her days in schools, libraries, and other venues speaking on Woody's Five Ways to Be Successful. In addition to schools and libraries, Leigh Anne has become an in-demand speaker for church events, women's' groups, and community organizations.

ILLUSTRATOR

Kentucky artist Chris Ware, being the father of seven, and consequently, a part-time small animal wrangler (snakes, frogs, hedge hogs, cats, dogs, guinea pigs, baby birds, turtles and fish), it is inevitable that kids and critters are his favorite things to illustrate. Family dogs Stella and Moose were consulted on each and every drawing of Woody and Chloe, and they have given their highest accolades... 5 (out of 5) barks!

FCA State Conference

On November 15, seven members of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) ventured to Lexington Christian Academy to attend the FCA State Conference. Events during the day included motivational speakers, preachers, skits, learning sessions, and sports competitions. There were two main attractions for the group that attended from Adair County High School. The first was Bob Holmes, the one man volleyball team and inspirational speaker. And the other was a Christian Rock Concert, featuring People of the Earth. Overall, the students had a fabulous time and they hope more of their fellow FCA members will be able to attend next year. Pictured above are the attendees: Brittany Mcfarland, Makayla Smith, Danielle Adams, Raysean Hughs, Katelynn Woodrum, Amber Davis, Samantha Choate, Mona Davis (chaperone), and Amanda Randolph (FCA Co-sponsor).

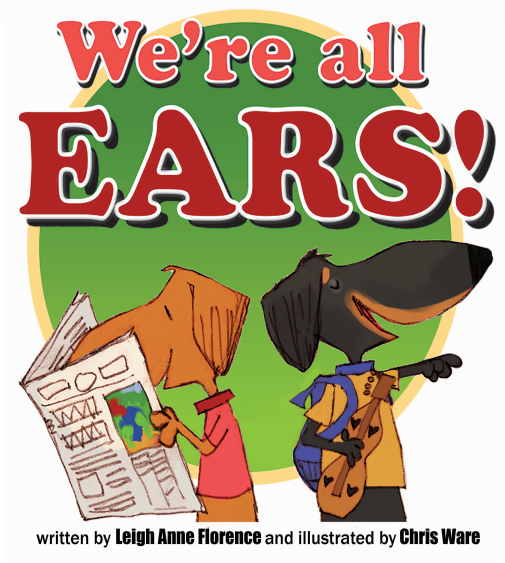

New Teacher Brings Talents To ACHS

Jessica Mays, one of Adair County Schools new teachers this year, has proven herself to be, without question, one in-a-million! She teaches Arts and Humanities and is resurrecting the choral program at Adair County High School. Mays is also an Assistant Band Director during Marching Season. In her spare time she is constantly knitting. She made the beautiful hat and scarf she has on in the photo above. Both the ACHS students and band students love her and hope she stays with us for a very long time. Keep an eye out for information on her choral group's next performance!

Guest Speaker for College Application Week

Last week was college application week at Adair County High School. Teacher, Susan Peck, took the opportunity to tie the event into her daily lesson today by providing a guest speaker. She contacted a former student who just so happens to be a first year medical school student attending the University of Kentucky, Cameron Campbell, to see if he would be available to speaker with her Chemistry II, Anatomy and AP Biology Classes. Cameron graciously accepted the invitation to return to his alma mater. He spoke about the application process for medical school and then gave students a glimpse of what medical school itself consist of. Cameron graduated ACHS in 2009 and we wish him continued success in his academic pursuits. We look forward to calling him Cameron Campbell, M.D. soon.

OUTSTANDING IN HIS FIELD

A KENTUCKY ADVENTURE

ACTIVITIES FOR TEACHERS AND STUDENTS

1. Open your local newspaper to the Classified section. Look under musical instruments to see if there are any dulcimers for sale. If so, is it an Appalachian dulcimer or a hammered dulcimer?

2. Ask your school's music teacher if he/she has an Appalachian dulcimer. If so, as a class, learn the song Sourwood Mountain. Sing it while your teacher plays the song on the dulcimer. If he/she doesn't have a dulcimer visit http://youtu.be/mzMzdrC0OYc to view and hear the instrument. Remember, folk songs are tweaked a bit as they are passed down through generations to make it more personal or relevant. Woody changed the song to SourWOODY Mountain. How could you change the song to make it more personal?

3. After you have sung it through once, repeat the song. This time either clap your hands or lightly stomp your foot to the steady beat.

4. Mr. B. talked about shape notes and four-part harmony. What are the four major voices of harmony?

5. Visit the following website to see a video on clogging: http://youtu.be/cs2j8f7H2WY.

6. Email Woody at woody@thewoodybooks.com and tell him about your version of Sourwood Mountain.

7. Cut out We're All Ears Chapter 7 and paste it in your scrapbook. Collect all ten chapters and you will have your very own Woody book! Make sure you visit www.thewoodybooks.com or www.kypress.com and listen as I read each chapter. While you are there, check out a special video message from Mom and me!

8. WOODY'S RIDDLE FOR THE WEEK:
What kind of music is the bunny rabbit's favorite?

Visit www.thewoodybooks.com to see the answer.

Stay tuned next week to read We're All Ears Chapter 8!

WORK AND DREAM LIKE A BIG DOG!

Reminder: Make sure you have parent or teacher permission when you are on the internet.

•Forget Me Not

Over the course of the next two years, Sarah and her husband Bill weighed the idea of opening their own business against the rigors they knew would come from such a challenge.

"It was something I loved to do, and our family really encouraged us to go for it," Steele says. "So we did."

Earlier this fall, Forget Me Not opened its doors on Jamestown Street; but despite the idea being born of Sarah's love for floral arrangements, the shop is accommodating of a much broader appeal. Currently, Forget Me Not is adorned with a variety of both classic and modern Christmas décor, ranging from colorful tree ornaments and candles to large throws and framed prints.

"Right now we're geared toward Christmas, but we'll change with the seasons," Steele explains. "We try to offer something for every occasion."

Those occasions, whether somber bereavement or joyous baby and bridal showers, can be marked by a host of the aforementioned items, all without leaving Columbia.

"We wanted to draw people in to shop locally," Steele begins. "It's hard to find gifts here sometimes, and we wanted to give people an option right here so they don't have to drive to Bowling Green or Campbellsville."

Not only is the business itself designed to keep Adair County dollars in Adair County, the Steeles say that as much of their inventory as possible is produced as locally as possible. Forget Me Not even offers a storefront to local crafters, vendors and manufacturers, providing area merchants with a shop from which to sell their goods.

"I think that's a great way to promote our local talents," Sarah adds. "There's some very talented people in this area and that's a way to help them be successful too."

With much of the in-stock items created in Kentucky, surrounding states, or at least the U.S., Forget Me Not also focuses on items that continue the theme of giving back. For example, the shop features Bridgewater brand candles, which come with an attached tag featuring a picture and brief snippet about an orphaned child that the company pledges to feed for a day for each candle sold.

No matter the purchase, Forget Me Not offers free of charge gift wrapping, and will deliver to funeral homes, schools and other locations as their ultimate goal of morphing into a floristry continues.

"By the first of the year, the plan is for this to be a complete florist," Steele explains. "We have some fresh flowers now, but once we have a cooler I'll be able to do more with that."

Until then, Forget Me Not hopes to fulfill Columbia and Adair County's holiday shopping needs, whether it be University of Kentucky themed décor and accessories, all-natural lotions, scarves and jewelry or one of countless ornaments—all without leaving town.

This weekend's Small Business Saturday figures to provide a great chance for many throughout the area to grab a first look at the shop, and Steele says she's hoping for a strong turnout across the county.

"I'd like to encourage everyone in the community to come out and support all of our local businesses," she says. "Not just us, but to work together and make everyone here successful. If we do, that boosts our entire community—we all benefit from shopping local."

From Elf on the Shelf to trees and ornaments, Forget Me Not has an array of Christmas items perfect for gift giving or home decoration this holiday season--all without leaving Columbia. The newly-opened business, owned by Bill and Sarah Steele, hopes to transition with the seasons and become a complete florist by early 2015.

Medal Of Honor Recipient Urges Lindsey Wilson College Students To Lead A "Life Of Significance"

Lindsey Wilson College students received a lesson in leadership Wednesday when they heard from a Medal of Honor Recipient.

Army veteran Gary Beikirch told a group of LWC students, Adair County High School students and area veterans about the lessons he learned since receiving the Medal of Honor in 1973 for bravery in a 1970 battle in the province of Kon Tum, which is in Vietnam"s Central Highlands region.

Beikirch said that at its core, the Medal of Honor "symbolizes a way of life, a way of living, of honoring and valuing and believing in others before yourself."

Lindsey Wilson College Dean of Students Chris Schmidt, left, receives a Medal of Honor sculpture from Medal of Honor recipient Gary Beikirch Wednesday in Roberta D. Cranmer Dining & Conference Center. The sculpture honoring Beikirch"s Medal of Honor will be on display at the college for the next year.

"There is an honor that comes with this medal," he said. "This medal is not about one person who does one thing on one day. This medal symbolizes countless men and women who have done countless acts of self-service -- acts of dedication, acts of duty, acts of caring for someone else more than themselves."

Beikirch"s Medal of Honor was honored Wednesday with a sculpture by Medal of Honor Tributes, an Elizabethtown, Ky.-based organization run by Army veteran Richard Powers. The sculpture of Beikirch"s Medal of Honor will be displayed for the next year in the atrium of the LWC Roberta D. Cranmer Dining & Conference Center.

Beikirch said he hopes the display will inspire students and others to examine their lives and encourage them to live a "life of significance."

"I hope that when you see the Medal of Honor tribute that it might cause you to challenge yourself and say, "Yeah, I think I can, too,"" he said.

After Beikirch, who was a combat medic and a Green Beret, returned home to his native New York in 1971, he spent two years living in a cave in New Hampshire where he reflected on his experiences in the Vietnam War and contemplated life"s meaning.

Beikirch said two quotes permeated much of his thinking while living in a cave in rural New Hampshire: "To really live, you must almost die. To those that fight for it, life has a meaning the protected don"t know."

Beikirch said his faith also deepened while living in a cave as he came to realize the larger significance of receiving the Medal of Honor.

"One of the things I learned in that cave is that this medal is not about me, I don"t wear it for me. This medal is about my God, and I wear it for Him and about what He has done, not what I have done," he said. "Without His grace, I wouldn"t have made it through those battles in Vietnam. Without his love and His forgiveness, I would have never survived the after-effects and the trauma of war. Ö So when I wear this medal, I wear it for Him and His honor."

After he received the Medal of Honor from President Nixon, Beikirch attended seminary, earned an undergraduate and a graduate degree. He worked as a pastor and was a guidance counselor for 33 years at a middle school in his native Rochester, N.Y.

Beikirch said he tried to teach his students to examine their lives and he encouraged them to also live a life of significance.

"Significance in life is what"s important," he said. "In life there"s a big, big difference between success and significance. For me, I choose significance in life. And significance in life is not dependent on your age. Ö Life can still be filled with significance if you choose to make decisions, moment by moment, and choose to make decisions based on valuing somebody else more than yourself and becoming a significant part of that person"s life."

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

Tyler Moore & Shelbi Cheatham

By Shamarie Claiborne

Tyler Moore, the first recipient of the Dr. Schneider Automotive Systems Inc. Certified Apprenticeship for Injection Molding, getting a big congratulations from Adair County Schools Superintendent Alan Reed.

The good news just keeps pouring in for Adair County High School students. Junior Tyler Moore, has been attending the Lake Cumberland Area Technology Center in Russell Springs the past few years. This past August, the Dr. Schneider Automotive Systems Inc. in Russell Springs announced they would offer a Certified Apprenticeship for Injection Molding to juniors throughout the state. Dr. Schneider Automotive Systems Inc. has only one plant in the United States and it's located in our area, convenient for Tyler since the craft of injection molding is where his interests lie. Injection molding is a specialized vocational skill that is highly sought after in many industries but predominantly in the automotive world.

When Tyler heard about the apprenticeship, he had thought it would be a great opportunity but was hesitant to apply. After more thought, he decided to go for it. He filled out the application, created a resume, and compiled the appropriate recommendations to be considered. Initially, there were 45 applicants being reviewed. After all factors were evaluated, Dr. Schneider Automotive Systems Inc. narrowed their selection to three individuals. When Tyler received word he had made the cut, he proudly went for his interview. Apparently, he shone like the rising star he is because word has arrived -- Tyler Moore is the first recipient of the Dr. Schneider Automotive Systems Inc. Certified Apprenticeship for Injection Molding in the State of Kentucky.

Tyler has been on cloud nine since receiving word of his apprenticeship. When asked what he wanted others to know about his accomplishment he stated, "It is a great opportunity, one I am truly grateful for. At first I didn't want to apply because I thought I didn't have a chance. But now, my suggestion to all the juniors who qualify is to apply next year. You never know, you may get it -- I did!"

The Adair Co. Schools wish Tyler the best of luck as he starts his apprenticeship.

Shelbi Cheatham working hard at completing her homework for one of her LWC classes she is taking as part of the Indian University at ACHS.

As the old saying goes, "the proof is in the pudding" -- but for Adair County High School Senior Shelbi Cheatham the proof is in the achievement!

Shelbi is one of the pilot students involved with Indian University at ACHS this year. Last year, the top 30 juniors were given the opportunity to have a different kind of senior year, with more flexibility than ever dreamed of in the history of the school. Students enrolled in "Indian U" have been allowed to take classes at both the high school and the college of their choice during the regular school day.

For Shelbi, who dreams of becoming a Registered Nurse, the logical answer was to take as many classes as possible at Lindsey Wilson College while finishing high school. Currently, Shelbi is taking 4 classes at Lindsey, one class at ACHS, and continues to be a member of the ACHS Varsity Cheerleading Squad.

When Shelbi finishes her current schedule in the spring she will not only graduate ACHS but start LWC in August as a sophomore. Yet the most impressive fact about Shelbi's success is that she will be eligible to apply for Lindsey Wilson's Nursing Program this coming March while still a senior in high school.

When asked about starting college early and how this year has been different than the rest of her academic career Shelbi stated, "It is challenging, I have to work hard, and I won't lie it is a little stressful at times. But if I continue to work hard, hopefully, I will graduate from Lindsey with my Nursing Degree three years after graduating from high school, which would make it worth it, in the end."

For those who haven't had the pleasure of meeting Shelbi she is graceful and well spoken. But more than anything, she is focused which increases the odds of her reaching her goals 100 fold.

The district looks forward to sharing other success stories throughout the year. Shelbi is one of our first and we could not be more proud. Shelbi is the daughter of Bryan and Tiffany Cheatham.

2015 4-H Country Ham Project

Do you like to eat country ham? Would you would like to learn how country ham is processed and process your own country ham? If the answer is YES to these questions, then the 4-H Country Ham project is for you.

What

4-H members throughout the state spend several months preparing their hams for the Fair, where their meat is judged by commercial country ham producers according to its smell, roundness, color, and texture.

When

To sign up for the project, youth and parents must complete the Country Ham Project Agreement and pay the $65.00 fee. Starting sometime in January, youth will meet to start curing their hams. This year will be cure them in the Adair County 4-H Ham House. Youth will also have to attend regular meetings to complete the required six hours of trainings to learn about hams and the curing process. In August, the ham will be taken to the Kentucky State Fair to be judged and youth will give a speech.

After the Hams are Cured

Youth are required to give a presentation on any aspect of the project such as nutrition or value added. In addition, the processors evaluate ham on such factors as leanness, shape, appearance, and aroma. The combined presentation and judging scores determine the overall winner. This takes place during the Kentucky State Fair.

Benefits

Youth develop valuable technical merit, communications, research and organizational skills from the presentations. Persistence and responsibility are among the traits 4-H members develop during the nine months they cure hams at the processing plant. Youth also learn to appreciate the importance of value added to a raw commodity. And, there's a financial benefit. All participants also receive a State Fair premium.

Cost

Participants pay a $65.00 fee. This year each youth will be able to keep both hams or keep one of the hams and the second ham will be auctioned off at an event. The livestock club will get 10% of the sale to use with the club and 10% will go to the Ham Scholarship. Auction money will be divided equally between the members who participate in the ham project.

Failure to complete the project will results in forfeiture of the 2 hams and the $65.00 fee.

The deadline to sign up for the Country Ham project is December 8, 2014.

Adair County is limited to 30 participants, so this will be a first come - first served sign up. Applications can be picked up at the Adair County Cooperative Extension Service temporary location at 42 Grant Lane.

LWC Advances To FCS Quarterfinals; Beats Faulkner 20-17

Haney, Howell earn FCS Outstanding Players of the Game

Josh Haney's fourth-quarter, 45-yard touchdown run proved to be the game-winner as No. 6-ranked Lindsey Wilson (Ky.) football defeated visiting Faulkner (Ala.) 20-17 Saturday at Blue Raider Stadium.

Haney broke free from a crowded line of scrimmage into the open field and made one man miss en route to the end zone to give the Blue Raiders at 20-9 lead with 4:25 left in regulation. Haney finished with 108 rushing yards on 11 carries and the score on his way to earning Most Outstanding Offensive Player of the Game.

Faulkner -- who had been held scoreless for more than 27 game minutes -- struck back with a four-play, 98-yard drive to cut the Lindsey Wilson lead to 20-17 with 3:12 left.

BREAKDOWN

with Blake Spires, Asst. Editor

Kobe Bryant is a hero.

In his 19 seasons of NBA experience, Kobe has carved out a role as one of the most beloved—and most hated—players of this or any generation. As the greatest scorer in the history of one of the league's greatest franchises, Bryant has earned five championships, 16 All-Star selections, 15 All-NBA honors, 12 All-Defensive nods, two scoring titles, two NBA Finals MVP awards and one NBA MVP award. He has amassed more than 32,000 career points and is currently leading the NBA in points per game at age 36.

A hero is defined as someone who, in the face of adversity or danger, displays courage or self-sacrifice for the greater good. Now, there are real life heroes: soldiers, firefighters, police officers, volunteers, etc., and there are also sports heroes: players who rise to even the largest of occasions with play the mirrors the magnitude of the moment, and who carry their teams, or even entire cities, states or countries, to victory and greatness.

Kobe Bryant is a real life hero to the sports world, and particularly the game of basketball. No, he isn't fighting for our freedom or rushing into burning buildings to save any lives. Not that kind of hero. What Kobe Bryant is saving is the game of basketball and the enjoyment of basketball fans—he's sprinting into the burning building of the past few decades of hoops and carrying us all out one turnaround fadeaway 22-footer at a time.

You're probably confused by now, but let me explain. At some point in the last 30 years or so, the world's most beautiful game began to see a virus spread. This virus, which myself and others have taken to calling 'Hero Ball,' had existed in small variations prior to this time period. Pete Maravich,is probably the game's most noteworthy early example, but the virus began to really take hold in the mid-1980s thanks to Michael Jordan, who we'll call Specimen 23.

Specimen 23 proliferated the virus, in part due to immense talent, in part due to a sociopathic inability to accept losing or failure, and in part because of shoddy teammates and coaching early in his career. As the virus grew and spread, Specimen 23's success and notoriety did as well. He became the most famous athlete in the world, the most marketable figure on the planet, and the most emulated basketball player of all time.

And thus Hero Ball became an epidemic. Scientists describe Hero Ball as a highly-selfish, isolation-focused brand of basketball in which the individual playing it believes that team success is best achieved through a demonstration of his or her own individual greatness—that is, the team is most likely to win if you use your superior talent (whether actual or perceived) to lead them there.

Symptoms of the virus include: excessive dribbling without the need to actually advance the ball or go anywhere, a refusal to either acknowledge or cooperate with the team strategy or play call, a pre-determined decision to shoot on a given possession or set of possessions, and an overwhelming tendency to seek out shot attempts with an often unnecessarily high degree of difficulty and low rate of conversion.

Such a dreaded ailment would appear to be completely destructive to the hopes of winning a team sport, and reasonable

A pair of Lindsey Wilson first downs secured the Blue Raider win -- a first for a Football Championship Series newcomer since 2010.

Lindsey Wilson (10-2) advances to the FCS quarterfinals with the win and will learn its opponent on Sunday. The Blue Raiders will more than likely be on the road next Saturday for the quarterfinal game.

Faulkner's season ends at 9-3.

Faulkner dented the scoreboard first as the Eagles marched 14 plays and 50 yards on their opening drive to set up a Hunter Kennamer 40-yard field goal for a 3-0 lead.

The Blue Raiders responded with a three-play, 78-yard drive on their first chance on offense to take a 7-3 lead.

Facing a third and 12 from the Lindsey Wilson 20-yard line, Branden Cresap hit Chaz Barnes in stride for an 80-yard touchdown and the lead. The scoring play was the second longest pass play in Lindsey Wilson football history.

While the first two drives produced points for each team, the two defenses quickly seized the momentum from the respective offenses. Both teams were forced to punt on their next two possessions.

Faulkner ended the scoring drought as the Eagles dove into their bag of tricks.

Mete Buckner took a pitch from Eagle quarterback David Cochran and tossed a 17-yard touchdown to Jazeric Peterson for a 13-7 lead. Peterson caught the halfback pass at the six-yard line and pin-balled off a pair of Lindsey Wilson defenders and won a sprint to the front-left pylon to give the Eagles the lead. Faulkner missed the extra point to keep the game at 13-7.

Lindsey Wilson -- who led the NAIA with 41 takeaways entering today's game -- forced the first of three Faulkner turnovers at the end of its next series.

After the Eagle defense forced a punt, Faulkner's Simon Smiley muffed the punt and Lou Alexander recovered the fumble give the Blue Raiders the ball on the Faulkner 22-yard line.

Lindsey Wilson needed seven plays to cover the 22 yards -- capped off with Branden Cresap's touchdown toss to Cortez Barber for a 13-9 lead. Cresap finished the game 16-of-36 for 199 yards and two touchdowns. Barber caught a team-high four balls for 30 yards and his 10th receiving touchdown of the season. The Blue Raiders missed the extra-point try and ultimately carried a 13-9 lead into intermission.

The two teams exchange stellar defensive plays throughout the third quarter and into the fourth period.

Lindsey Wilson's Austin Howell -- the Most Outstanding Defensive Player of the Game -- picked off Cochran twice in the game, including once during the scoreless third quarter.

Marte Sears and Keylan Smith added interceptions for the Eagles in the third period. Smith's picked came in the end zone when the Blue Raiders threatened to extend their lead.

The two teams combined for seven punts after the break.

Lindsey Wilson finally ended the scoring drought with the Haney run. Haney becomes the 11th Blue Raider all-time to run for 100 yards in a game and the first this season. The touchdown is his ninth of the season.

Faulkner used a second unorthodox play in the game to cut the deficit to three points.

Cochran started the play with a pass to Keithon Redding who lateralled to Gabe Chambers for a 57-yard completion to the six-yard line. Cochran connected with Peterson three plays later for a touchdown -- Peterson's second of the day. Peterson added the two-point conversion to trim the Lindsey Wilson lead to 20-17.

Following the Faulkner kickoff and a pair of Lindsey Wilson runs, the Blue Raiders faced a third and five from their own 32-yard line. Cresap connected with Corey Smith for a six-yard completion to move the chains. Two Haney runs and 14 yards later, Cresap lined up in victory formation to claim the win.

Lindsey Wilson out-gained the Eagles 345-344 in total offense and won the turnover battle 3-2. The Blue Raiders improve to 21-1 all-time when forcing more turnovers.

The Blue Raiders extend their winning streak to a program-best seven straight and earn the program's first-ever 10-win season with the victory.

Lindsey Wilson College quarterback Branden Cresap of Shelbyville, Ky., hugs teammate linebacker Austin Howell of Bowling Green, Ky., following the Blue Raiders' 20-17 win over Faulkner (Ala.) University in Saturday's NAIA playoff game at Blue Raider Stadium. Cresap threw for 199 yards and two touchdowns, Howell was named the game's Outstanding Defensive Player.

NO. 6 FOOTBALL TRAVELS TO NO. 3 SAINT XAVIER ON SATURDAY IN FCS QUARTERFINALS

Lindsey Wilson football is heading to the Windy City for a Saturday date with Saint Xavier (Ill.) in the Football Championship Series Quarterfinals.

Kickoff is slated for 1 p.m. CT at Bruce R. Deaton Memorial Field in Chicago.

No. 3-ranked Saint Xavier defeated Campbellsville (Ky.) 38-35 at home to run its all-time home playoff record to 9-1. The Cougars have won six straight, including three wins over ranked opponents during the streak.

minds maintained that it was, but Specimen 23's ability superseded science, and he became the greatest clutch player, and arguably the greatest winner, in American sports.

Over time, as the virus spread, mutations naturally occurred. There are larger and smaller variations, with wildly different infection rates. The small, seemingly unstoppable but ultimately harmless Allen Iverson strand left an undeniable mark on basketball history, while the Rashard Lewis strand saw a brief season of infection before being relegated to common cold status.

There were near-identical imitations, designedto trick the mind and body into allowing the virus to run free, and those too saw wildly varying success rates. There was the Ricky Davis strand and the Larry Hughes strand, but also the Vince Carter and Tracy McGrady strands. But one imitation surpassed even the greatest of the others and extended itself into history as nearly matching Specimen 23 in terms of both strength and destruction: Kobe Bryant.

For the past decade-and-a-half, Kobe Bryant carried the banner of Specimen 23. The scowl, the body language, the post-up fadeaway along the baseline—he was a frighteningly good reproduction. But in being so close to the original, the population was also further along in developing its immunity; the virus could run wild, but with less and less overall effect.

As Bryant's career progressed and the environment supporting the virus weakened, teams like the San Antonio Spurs, the Boston Celtics and the Miami Heat discovered what appeared to be a more efficient, and ultimately successful, way to win games: stockpile a collection of talent and/or pieces that precisely complimented one another, understand the changing dynamic of league rules on illegal defense, zones and hand-checking, and design an offense predicated on balance, ball movement, and statistically advantageous shot attempts. The virus was decimated.

There are remnants—James Harden, Kyrie Irving and others can still find individual success across the league, but ultimate victory that was achieved by Specimen 23 and Kobe Bryant seems impossible in their current mutations.

That is being proven this season. As Kobe leads the NBA in scoring at nearly 27 points per game, the 3-11 Lakers have become a national punchline, relevant only because of Kobe's legacy and entertainment value as the Last Great Hero Baller. The same style that served Kobe and the Lakers for so long has ultimately become their undoing.

And so it is that Kobe Bryant's final few seasons will save us all. In the same way that a flu shot prevents someone from becoming sick by triggering the body's immune system response to a similar foreign invader, it's appropriate that this potent strand of basketball destruction will be eradicated by the closest and most powerful imitation since the original Specimen 23. Kobe Bryant is saving us from Hero Ball, and he's doing it by playing Hero Ball. By definition, that makes him a hero.

Sarah Shilling finished with 15 kills while hitting .636 in the Blue Raider sweep of Xavier (La.) in the opening round of the NAIA Volleyball National Championships.

Dalyan Hawes celebrates following one of his saves in tonight's shootout.

Men's Soccer Advances To Second Round, Wins Shootout Over Lindenwood-Belleville

Hawes stops 3 shots in the shootout

Dalyan Hawes stopped three of the four penalty kicks he faced during a shootout Saturday to help the Lindsey Wilson men's soccer team survive Lindenwood-Belleville's (Ill.) upset bid at Walter S. Reuling Stadium.

The eighth-seeded Blue Raiders (14-2-3) advance 3-1 on PKs following a scoreless double-overtime tie between the two teams. Lindsey Wilson advances to face Texas at Brownsville on Dec. 1 in the NAIA National Tournament Second Round in Delray Beach, Fla.

Keane McIvor was the first to make the long, lonely walk from midfield to the penalty spot. McIvor used both posts to give Lindsey Wilson a 1-0 lead in the shootout. His shot ricocheted off the inside post, down the goal line and off the other post before finding the back of the net.

Hawes made his first stop diving to his right and cleanly punching away Sebastian Reyes' attempt to preserve the 1-0 Lindsey Wilson lead.

Lindenwood-Belleville keeper Nicolas Nicolaci -- who was outstanding during regulation and two overtime periods accumulating five saves -- made his only save of the shootout against Tom Moody to keep the Lynx (16-1-2) within one.

It would be the last save for Nicolaci.

Leonardo Ferri momentarily tied the shootout at 1-1 only to have Lindsey Wilson reclaim the lead on Adis Islamovic's make.

Hawes made back-to-back saves with his next two chances. He stopped Juan Santamaria's shot diving to his left and Fernando Carcamo's shot diving to his right to send the Blue Raiders into the next round.

Sandwich between the two saves, Lindsey Wilson's Anthony Tshimpi scored to increase the Lindsey Wilson lead to 3-1. Hawes did the rest.

Both teams had their chances prior to the fateful shootout.

Lindenwood-Belleville put three shots on goal during the game while the Blue Raiders found the target five times. Each time, the goalkeepers were equal to the task.

The penalty kick win improves Blue Raiders' record to 3-1 all-time in shootouts at the national tournament. Prior to tonight, the last time the Blue Raiders were involved in a shootout was a 4-3 win over Azusa Pacific (Calif.) in the 2004 tournament.

Lindsey Wilson advances to face undefeated Texas at Brownsville (21-0-0) -- who defeated Rocky Mountain (Mont.) 2-1 today -- at 5:30 p.m. CT on Monday, Dec. 1 at the Seacrest Soccer Complex in Delray Beach.

LWC Women's Soccer Shuts Out Columbia 4-0, Earns Trip To National Championship Final Site

Four different Blue Raiders scored tonight

The sixth-seeded Lindsey Wilson women's soccer team blanked visiting Columbia (Mo.) 4-0 in the NAIA Women's Soccer National Championship Opening Round game Saturday afternoon at Walter S. Reuling Stadium.

The Blue Raiders (14-3-3) earn a trip to Orange Beach, Alabama, the final site of the NAIA Women's Soccer National Championship.

The Lindsey Wilson offense started early against the unseeded Cougars with a pair of goals in the first 10 minutes of the game.

Lyana Perez scored the game's first goal in the fifth minute off Elizabet Madjarac's first of two assists in the game. Madjarac fed Perez who chipped the ball over Cougars' goalkeeper Flavia Rosado for her 12th goal of the season.

In the 10th minute, Madjarac was once again setting up a teammate as she sent a ball deep into the penalty box for Anna Vig. Vig collected the pass and scored her 15th goal of the season to give the Blue Raiders the 2-0 lead.

Carola Schneider pushed the Lindsey Wilson lead to 3-0 in the 34th minute. Nomvula Kgoale started the scoring chance with a pass to just outside the six-yard box and Schneider punched it home for the third goal of the game.

Kgoale added the final goal of the night giving the Blue Raiders four different goal scorers in the match. Kgoale scored off a Bettina Brulhart assist in the 87th minute to give Lindsey Wilson a 4-0 lead and the eventual win.

Lindsey Wilson out-shot Columbia 22-0 in the game.

Lindsey Wilson's advances to the national tournament's second round to face No. 11-seed and host Mobile (Ala.) at the Orange Beach Sportsplex in Orange Beach, Ala. Kickoff is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. CT on Tuesday, Dec. 1.

Anna Vig scored one of Lindsey Wilson four goals in the Lady Blue Raider win over Columbia, 4-0.

Volleyball Sweeps Xavier In First Round, Blue Raiders Headed To NAIA Pool Play In Sioux City, Iowa

Yeniffer Ramirez and Sarah Shilling combined for 33 of the Blue Raiders' 50 kills

The 12th-ranked Lindsey Wilson volleyball team swept visiting Xavier (La.) 3-0 (25-16, 25-15, 25-16) to punch their ticket to the 2014 NAIA Volleyball National Championships, presented by J&L Enterprises in Sioux City, Iowa.

With the victory, Lindsey Wilson qualifies for NAIA Pool Play for the third-consecutive year.

The Blue Raiders (33-3) started fast in the opening set as they built a 10-3 advantage with the aid of five kills by Yeniffer Ramirez.

The Gold Nuggets (20-6) worked to bring the match within three points at 15-12, but Lindsey Wilson used a 10-4 run to close out the set 25-16.

Lindsey Wilson hit .450 as a team in the opening frame, scoring 21 of their 25 points via kills.

Set two was the most competitive set of the match as the teams traded points early until the match became tied at 12-12.

But the Blue Raiders cranked it into high gear and went on a 13-3 run to close out the set, 25-15.

Lindsey Wilson hit .333 as a squad while limiting the Gold Nuggets to -0.026 as a team in set two.

The third set saw Lindsey Wilson get out to another fast start, building a 9-1 lead after the first 10 points. The Blue Raiders continued to roll as they built a 19-7 advantage. Xavier managed to get no closer than eight points for the rest of the match as Lindsey Wilson took the set 25-16 to complete the sweep.

The Blue Raiders finished with a .343 attacking percentage as a team while holding Xavier to a .129 mark.

Ramirez led Lindsey Wilson with 18 kills on the night and a .382 attacking percentage. Sarah Shilling also tallied double-digit kills as she finished with 15 and a .636 attacking percentage. Alexa Just, making her first start at the setter position this season, totaled 39 assists and 10 digs, and Caitlyn Tino finished with 14 digs. Kellie Ranney also had double-digit digs with 10.

CeCe Williams led Xavier with 11 kills in the loss. She was the lone Gold Nugget to reach double figures. Franziska Pirkl led the team with 21 assists and 12 digs.

The 2014 NAIA Volleyball National Championship presented by J&L Enterprises, Pool Play pairings and schedule has been released today by the national office.

The Blue Raiders (33-3) have been placed in Pool A along with No. 1 Rocky Mountain (Mont.), No. 13 Davenport (Mich.) and host school Briar Cliff (Iowa).

Rocky Mountain (29-2) has held the No. 1 ranking for 11-consecutive polls this season. The Battlin' Bears have won 28-straight matches entering pool play and received a bye directly to pool play in Sioux City, Iowa.

Davenport (35-7) defeated Olivet Nazarene (Ill.) by a 3-0 mark in their NAIA Opening Round match to punch their ticket to the final site.

Briar Cliff (19-12) received an automatic bye into pool play as being the host school for the national championship event.

Lindsey Wilson opens play on Tuesday, Dec. 2 at 5:45 p.m. CT against Davenport. The Blue Raiders then face Briar Cliff on Wednesday, Dec. 3 at 8 p.m. CT followed by an 8 p.m. CT matchup on Thursday, Dec. 4 against Rocky Mountain.

Support Local Business Promotion

The Columbia-Adair County Chamber of Commerce "Support Local Businesses" Promotion is now underway in Columbia and Adair County businesses. This two week shop local campaign to celebrate and focus attention on the importance of our local community businesses will be in progress through December 13. We ask our community to join in the "shop local" by considering Columbia and Adair County businesses first when making purchasing throughout this promotion, and every day during the year.

During this promotion, local participating Chamber businesses will be offering shoppers the opportunity to register to win $200 cash donated by Duo County Telecom and First & Farmers National Bank. To register, look for the "Support Local Businesses" flyer displayed in the windows of participating Chamber businesses. Remember the more you shop the better chance you have to win!

Why Shop Local?

Shopping local has many positive effects in maintaining and growing local businesses, jobs and improving our community. First and foremost, shopping locally helps our Columbia and Adair County economy stay strong. Spending at locally owned independent businesses has a multiplier effect with a larger portion of money being recirculated back into the community. Money spent in the local economy with locally owned businesses pays forward with the local business owners, employees and suppliers re-spending cash locally to purchase other goods, services and to pay taxes to support our community.

Thank you Columbia and Adair businesses for offering our community the many unique services and merchandise that meet the local wants and needs.

The Chamber and our community have a vested interest in promoting and growing our local businesses that make up a distinctive mix of services and products that are unique to the needs within the community and region.

Money invested locally is in turn used to create local jobs, tailor to customer needs and provide a better quality of individual service. Local small businesses and local franchise owners need community support to continue to exist.

Please join us in supporting and celebrating Columbia-Adair County's local businesses, during the designated November 29-December 13, and every day during the year. Remember to register to win $200 at local participating Chamber member businesses. If you have questions, or need additional information, please contact the Columbia-Adair Chamber of Commerce office at 270-384-6020.

Thanks to our Columbia and Adair County businesses, the community, the media and Chamber Board Members, Ellen Zornes, Sherry Selby, Ann Martin and Chamber secretary, Kathy Johnson who helped make this promotion possible.

Editorial of the Month

THINK, SHOP, BUY, LOCAL

BY: SUE C. STIVERS, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

The Holiday season is here. Time to start shopping for gift giving for family and friends. It's also a great time to transform our community into a retail destination, draw traffic and encourage sales. Buying local is the right choice for our families, schools and for our community. Investing in our locally owned businesses and keeping your money in our Community is an important way of keeping our Community strong. For example:

Spend $200.00 locally, $124.00 stays right here in our community. Spend $200.00 on-line, $0 is returned to our community. Spend $200.00 out-of-county, $0 is returned to our community.

Every person needs to realize that "Columbia – Adair County is their home, and their way of life depends on the support of its local businesses.

Let's improve the economic health of our neighborhoods, our localities and local businesses by shopping at home. Let's look at some of the reasons and the importance of buying locally.

1. Shopping local creates jobs. Shops and businesses in our town create local employment and self-employment. These people in turn spend in the local economy.

2. Shopping locally saves you time and money. You travel less and save on time and fuel.

3. Local independent shops & businesses invest more in your community. Local businesses are proportionally more generous in the support of local charities, schools and community events. Supporting our local businesses means a financial contribution to mine and your community.

4. Shopping locally retains your communities. People don't like losing businesses and services in our town, but don't equate this with how they spend their money.

5. Local businesses sell great products at affordable prices. Some people get out of the habit of shopping locally and are then surprised by the range of products available.

6. Shopping locally retains your distinctiveness. Independent shops and businesses create distinctive shopping experiences and stock different products. Local businesses respond more quickly to the needs of local customers, stocking products to meet changing population needs.

7. Shopping locally saves the environment. Local businesses often stock a high percentage of locally sources goods that do not require long-distant transportation, helping to reduce our global footprint.

8. Local businesses are for everyone. Most people can get to their local shops and businesses easily.

9. Local businesses value you more. Evidence from numerous surveys show people receive better customer care and service locally. These businesses survive by their reputation and repeat businesses, which means you get a higher standard of service.

10. Shopping locally saves services. Private and public sector services cluster around shops. As businesses disappear so do hairdressers, banks, restaurants, gift shops, restaurants and other businesses.

Consumers can pledge to THINK, SHOP, BUY, LOCAL and commit to patronizing businesses near where they live and work. Local businesses employ your neighbors, pay taxes that support your schools and improve your roads, and contribute to local non-profit groups.

Let me ask you a question. When you or your organization are raising funds for a particular cause, where do you go to ask for a donation? Do you go to out of town businesses where you shop and ask them for money? Do you go to the out-of-town Mayors & City Councils and the County Judges & Fiscal Courts to ask for tax money? If you do I have not heard about it. But I do know that our county people ask for local tax money for projects.

Together we can strengthen relationships that improve our quality of life. So next time before you make a purchase in another City, ask yourself this question. Is it something you can buy locally? "THINK, SHOP, BUY, LOCAL."

LWC To Host Fourth-Annual Christmas Carnival

"Christmas Memories" will be the theme of Lindsey Wilson College's fourth-annual Christmas Carnival, set for Saturday, Dec. 6, in the Doris and Bob Holloway Health & Wellness Center, 299 Williams St.

The event -- which is free and open to the public -- will be held from 1-4 p.m. CT.

"This will be a free, fun, and safe environment for kids of all ages and their families, as well as others from the community," said Lindsey Wilson Director of Campus Recreation Joel Peterson. "We want this event to be the biggest and best one yet, with lots of community involvement and support. It's a great way to celebrate the coming of Christmas, and to get in the spirit of the season as we think about happy memories and traditions."

The Christmas Carnival will include activities for children, including cookie-decorating, story-book reading, arts and crafts, balloon sculpting, face painting, and inflatable play equipment. Children can also have their picture taken with Santa Claus.

Entertainment will be provided by Christmas carolers from the college and area churches, and area businesses will sell their arts and crafts.

Guests can also donate a new children's coat, which will be distributed by the Lindsey Wilson Bonner Scholars to area preschoolers from under-privileged families.

Booth space is available for organizations and businesses who want to participate in the Christmas Carnival. For more information, contact Peterson at or 270-384-7381.

Temporary and/or Seasonal Electric Service - Rider TS

Availability of Service:

Current: This rider is available at the option of the Customer where Customer's business does not require permanent installation of Company's facilities and is of such nature to require:

1. only seasonal service or temporary service, including service provided for construction of residences or commercial buildings, and where in the judgment of Company the local and system electrical facility capacities are adequate to serve the load without impairment of service to other customers; or
2. where Customer has need for temporary use of Company facilities and Company has facilities it is willing to provide.

This service is available for not less than one (1) month (approximately 30 days), but when service is used longer than one (1) month, any fraction of a month's use will be prorated for billing purposes.

Proposed: This rider is available at the option of Company where:

Standard Rate for Low Emission Vehicle Service – Rate LEV

Current

Basic Service Charge per Month:	$10.75
Energy Charge per kWh:
Off-Peak Hours	$0.05587

Proposed – This rate schedule is proposed to be eliminated. The Company will make all reasonable efforts to contact Rate LEV customers to advise them of their new rate options after the Commission approves the new rates but before they take effect (at which time Rate LEV will terminate). Because Rate RTOD-Energy is the new rate most similar to Rate LEV, the Company will automatically transfer to Rate RTOD-Energy all Rate LEV customers who have not responded to the Company's outreach efforts by the effective date of the new rates; however, the Company will continue to make reasonable efforts to obtain those customers' input even after the rate change.

Current:

Proposed:
Company's Budget Payment Plan is available to any residential customer served under Residential Service Rate RS or any general service customer served under General Service Rate GS. If a residential customer, who is currently served under Residential Service Rate RS and is currently enrolled in the Budget Payment Plan, elects to take service under Residential Time-of-Day Energy Service Rate RTOD-Energy or Residential Time-of-Day Demand Service Rate RTOD-Demand, such customer would be removed from the Budget Payment Plan and restored to regular billing.
